A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

With our sesquicentennial year signaling a new chapter for Claflin University and with a new president at the helm, change is everywhere. This is natural. The defining characteristic of a Claflin University education, after all, is its relevance in this changing world – the phenomenal, transformative power Claflin gives to her students and, in turn, the forward progress that is infused into our communities and the nation.

An institution known and loved for its ability to change with the times, Claflin University is indebted to the loyal partners who support us. We are buoyed by the Claflin Confidence that donors live and give each and every day. Thank you.

Indeed, the generosity of our stakeholders, including faculty, staff, students, alumni, corporations, foundations, and faith-based groups, makes all the difference to this special place on a Hilltop High. It enables us to provide direct scholarship assistance to deserving students, whose talent amazes and inspires us all. Philanthropic gifts also make it possible for the University to attract and retain brilliant faculty and fiercely committed staff in a market that is increasingly competitive. Every gift we receive is used to ensure that Claflin University can provide the best experience possible for her students, whose development is our high calling and deep privilege.

The following pages celebrate your role in making possible Claflin's aspirational vision, which is to be recognized as a leading 21st Century institution of higher education that develops a diverse and inclusive community of globally engaged visionary leaders.

Great stories are remembered for their heroes. Great legacies are known by the legendary leaders who built them. As Claflin University's story continues to unfold, your support is the selfless contribution that makes the best changes possible. Thank you for adding your name to the list of Claflin's change-makers.

Sincerely,

Dr. Dwaun J. Warmack
President

JESSICA TOLBERT, '19

Four years ago, Jessica Tolbert would have been hard pressed to predict the accomplishments and experiences that awaited her when she enrolled at Claflin University. Tolbert, a native of Chattanooga, Tenn., heard about Claflin after meeting Mike Zeigler, the university's director of admissions, at a college fair. She was so impressed with his presentation that, after conducting her own research, Tolbert made the decision to enroll at Claflin without a visit to Orangeburg. "I just knew Claflin was the right place for me," Tolbert said.

Tolbert earned a bachelor's degree in biochemistry. She initially distinguished herself through her academic performance as a student in the Alice Carson Tisdale Honors College. She later displayed her leadership capabilities when she was elected president of the Claflin University Student Government Association during the 2017-18 academic year.

Serving as SGA president provided Tolbert insight for how to become an effective leader and the different perceptions of male versus female leaders. "I learned that there is always room to grow when you hold a leadership position," Tolbert said. "You have to evolve because issues and priorities can change. I also discovered that there is a double standard for women in leadership positions. We have to look the part at all times - from the way we dress to how we interact with others. Our society still has a long way to go in accepting and respecting women who are in leadership roles."

Although Tolbert was deeply immersed in student politics and other campus activities, she set her sights on study abroad opportunities. Tolbert received her first study abroad opportunity in June 2018 as a research assistant in the International Research Experience for Undergraduates coordinated by Syracuse University. The program, which is funded by the National Science Foundation, assigned Tolbert to research projects for the summer in Austria at Graz University. Tolbert joined investigators studying organic synthesis.

When the program ended in August 2018, Tolbert continued her study abroad odyssey by travelling to Kenya to participate in a student exchange initiative. Jessica and two other Claflin students spent the entire semester in Kenya. The students were enrolled in mini-courses at Kenya International University-Africa that kept them on schedule to graduate in May 2019. The officials at Kenya were so impressed that three students from Kenya came to Claflin for the 2019 fall semester.

Tolbert said that came traveling to two continents in the same year was so much more than what she expected. "While in Europe I visited the Czech Republic, Italy, Hungary and United Kingdom. Then, going to Kenya after that was beyond anything I imagined would happen at Claflin," she said.

Tolbert said that in addition to enhancing her knowledge as a researcher and navigating through the language and cultural diversity of two distinctly different continents, she discovered a lot about herself. "I found out what I can or what I am willing to handle," she said. "I gained a lot of confidence in myself. There really is the 'Claflin Confidence.' There were many times when I was the only black person in an airport or restaurant. It made me realize how much we - as blacks - have to do in the world to truly become global citizens."

Tolbert chose to attend Dartmouth College, where she is pursuing a doctorate in chemistry. Eventually, she plans to launch a career in higher education as an administrator or faculty member.

AGBAI OKORONKWO, '19

Agbai Okoronkwo, who was a member of the Alice Carson Tisdale Honors College, graduated with a bachelor's degree in computer science with a minor in cybersecurity and a 3.87 grade point average. Before his matriculation at Claflin, Agbai graduated from Dority International Secondary School in Nigeria. Dority International is listed as one of the country's best private schools with rigorous entrance exams and long-standing records of high achievement on the African senior exam.

Agbai headed to Claflin on the recommendation of a school counselor who knew about the university and its focus on global engagement. "The word about Claflin is out in our country," he said. "People know about this university and I wanted to be part of what is happening."

Agbai, who speaks fluent English, French and Igbo, one of Nigeria's three major languages, was initially a little lonesome and homesick. However, after meeting other international students, especially those from other African countries, that changed. As his comfort level increased, he focused his energy on his studies.

His sophomore year, he received an internship with Survey Monkey. As a junior he interned with Goldman Sachs.

Agbai is now in New York City working full-time with Goldman Sachs, a leader in global investment banking, securities and investment management. He works in internal audits and specifically looks at cybersecurity and risk analysis. Agbai is passionate about both areas, which are major issues as individuals and companies worry about hacked data and personal information.

"The causes of these types of crimes and how they can be prevented will be one of my primary responsibilities," he said. "I've spent my time here not just learning what I was being taught, but doing additional research on cybersecurity and figuring out what role I can play. College has provided me the foundation that enabled me to do research on an issue. I've tried to take advantage of all that was here at Claflin, so I am ready for my next steps."

Dr. Cheryl Swainer, professor in the department of Mathematics and Computer Sciences, called Agbai the "full package." "He has the intelligence, the looks, great interpersonal skills and is a natural-born leader," she said. "He is a real go-getter and I expect him to be a leader in corporate America. He will go far."

Swainer, who has contacts with Goldman Sachs, first invited the corporate giant to Claflin knowing the caliber of some of her students. "I wanted them to partner with us and I wanted them to hire talented African-American students," she said. "So why not start at Claflin? We help students fulfill their dreams. That's who we are."

Agbai was one of three Claflin students in the 2019 graduating class who were offered jobs with Goldman Sachs.

While at Claflin, Agbai served as a member of the International Students' Association, was a member and president of the campus chapter of the National Society of Black Engineers, and a campus tutor in algebra, calculus and chemistry. He also placed second in Claflin's first student research competition.

Agbai was also part of a team from Claflin that qualified for the three-day Collegiate Palmetto Cyber Defense Competition, hosted by the Naval Information Warfare Center Atlantic and the South Carolina Lowcountry Chapter of the Armed Forces Communications Electronic Association.

His ultimate goal is to head back to Nigeria and open a "boot camp" to prepare students for positions with national and international companies. "How long it might take to get this up and running, I'm not sure," he said. "For now, I want to make the connections, but I want to go back home and provide students with the technology skills they will need to function in this high-tech economy."

DC ACHIEVERS PROGRAM

Zayanna Smith, Qui'Eva Evans, Rasheed Gibbs
and Michael Tanner

When Zayauna Smith was a senior at H.D. Woodson High School in Washington, D.C., she dreamed of attending college. However, she was undecided on where she would continue her education or how to find the resources necessary for tuition and other fees. Smith lives in Ward 7, which comprises some of the District's most economically challenged areas. Despite the recent influx of new, more affluent residents and innovative revitalization projects; Ward 7 continues to be plagued by escalating violence, low employment rates, and underperforming schools.

"I thought about college, but I was really unsure about where I was going and how I was going to get there," said Smith. However, she had a life-changing experience after meeting representatives of the DC Achievers Program. Fast-forward to 2019, as Smith and 11 other students from the program were among the graduates who received bachelor's degrees from Claflin University during its historic sesquicentennial commencement.

"When representatives from the DC Achievers Program mentioned 'free money' for college, in their presentation, I knew I had to look into it," said Smith who earned bachelor's degrees in psychology and political science at Claflin. "It definitely was one of the best decisions I ever made. The program has made a tremendous impact on my life. In addition to providing me and other students on the east side of the Anacostia river a college education, I established some great relationships in the program and at Claflin."

Founded in 2006, the mission of the DC Achievers Program is to improve low college graduation rates of students in Wards 7 and 8 in public and public charter schools. The nonprofit education program provides scholarships that enable students from those districts to attend college. The program also provides tutors, mentors and career counseling assistance. DC Achievers Program is funded by the College Success Foundation through a grant by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Michael Tanner, who earned a bachelor's degree in management, only saw two options when he graduated from Friendship Collegiate Academy before he was introduced to the DC Achievers Program. He could join the military or become a police officer.

"My mom would say I was getting ready to sign my life away," Tanner said as he thought about his life before enrolling at Claflin. "I've developed a deep love for the University. Claflin has taught me more than just basic values. I've learned about true Claflin leadership."

Tanner credits his decision to attend Claflin to Antonio McFarland, assistant director of admissions at Claflin. "Mr. McFarland always projects a contagious enthusiasm and passion for the University and the students," Tanner said. "He helped me throughout my four years at Claflin. Earning this degree would have been very difficult without his assistance."

Rasheed Gibbs, another graduate and member of the DC Achievers program, agreed that the invaluable assistance from administrators and faculty at Claflin contributed to his success. He also expressed his gratitude for the support provided by the DC Achievers Program and the College Success Foundation.

"It's beyond a scholarship," Gibbs said. "The people in this program have been my primary support system since I arrived. They don't just give you money and send you on your way. They really care. If they see you straying from your responsibilities, they will let you know, and bring you back."

All three students took advantage of the myriad opportunities Claflin offers that promote academic, career, and cultural development. Smith was elected Miss Sophomore, Miss Homecoming and Senior Class President while attending Claflin. She also participated in study abroad and spent five months in Dubai.

"My Claflin experiences answered a lot of questions and pointed me in the right direction," said Smith. "I grew up in Kenilworth, a pretty tough neighborhood. But, I'm extremely invested in my community, I'm extremely supportive of my community, I believe in my people in the community, and I'm proud of where I come from, but I want that to last. I want that same pride for my community that my grandmother gave to my mom, who then gave it to me, so I can give to my future children," Smith said.

Smith already had experience in the DC government through an internship at the Department of Youth Rehabilitation. She has considered returning to take on a full-time position. One of her goals is to work with current Washington Mayor Muriel Bowser.

Tanner had interviews lined up with Apple, Enterprise Rent-A-Car and Best Buy after graduation. His goal is to earn a spot in a leadership development program for recent graduates.

The list of Claflin graduates in the Class of 2019 from the DC Achievers Program also included:

- Nicholas Ballard (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Psychology major)
- Jasmine Bourn (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Psychology major)
- Syriah Carter, Friendship Collegiate Academy, Business Administration major)
- Dimontre Davis (Ballou High School, Criminal Justice)
- Qui'Era Evans (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Mass Communications major)
- Nathaniel Fields (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Business Administration and Mass Communications major)
- Keiana Joaquin (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Mass Communications major)
- Emoni King (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Psychology major)
- Antonio Tolson (Friendship Collegiate Academy, Mass Communications major)

DANIEL PENSEL, '19
BRITTANY PENSEL, '18

Daniel Pensel has always considered himself a leader, whether playing baseball or building forts with friends during his childhood in Orangeburg. Back then, it wasn't unusual for Pensel to make decisions when he and his playmates encountered a challenge.

These days, Pensel's job as a superintendent for water and wastewater for Calhoun County enables him to continually display his leadership skills thanks to the completion of his bachelor's degree in Claflin University's organizational management program. When he applied for his current job, one of the requirements was a four-year degree.

Pensel was a part of the Class of 2019 and among the first graduates who enrolled in Claflin through South Carolina's Technical College System Memorandum of Understanding signed in 2016.

Pensel, 32, said he had mixed feelings about completing the program. "I'm excited that I have completed the program, but it's a little bittersweet," he said. "I am also a little sad because I enjoy the classes and meeting with the other students." Among the courses he enjoyed most were business research and business ethics.

"Ethics plays on your core values as a person," Pensel said. "So many ethical decisions are based on a person's background or values. We learned how it applies to people from all walks of life. No one grew up the same way."

Group discussions based on case studies were pivotal to learning, and Pensel appreciated being in classes where free expression was encouraged among mostly adult learners. "Our professors did not do all the talking," he said with a laugh.

Pensel came to Claflin with 130 credit hours from Orangeburg-Calhoun Technical College. He said the MOU provided a financial incentive that was important to him as a husband and father of two. He estimates that he paid approximately $15,000 in total for his combined degrees.

The MOU agreement allows students who have earned associate degrees to enroll in Claflin as juniors with the possibility of graduating with a bachelor's degree within 18 months. "This agreement is the result of the commitment and effort of several people at both institutions," President Emeritus Dr. Henry N. Tisdale said when the agreement was signed. "Our partnership represents a historic outreach. Claflin has always established productive relationships with individual technical colleges throughout the state. However, we can now provide academic opportunities and access to deserving students from all of the 16 technical colleges in the SCTC System."

Pensel is grateful that the MOU allowed him and his wife to earn a four-year degree. His wife, Brittany, completed coursework for her degree in elementary education in 2018. She teaches at Edisto Primary School in Cordova. "I made sure that my wife finished her degree, and I decided to go back to further my education," Pensel said.

Looking back, Pensel said his life is far different from his senior year in high school when he had "no desire" to attend college. After spending three years in the Army, he worked in construction before landing a job in Orangeburg's Department of Public Utilities.

Pensel plans to continue his education after graduation. He may pursue a master's degree in business administration and he has considered law school. Pensel enjoys debating and believes the skill will come in handy if he pursues a career as an environmental attorney. "I've seen a lot of people's lives destroyed by some of the unlawful dumping in our rivers," he said. "If we don't take care of the environment who will?"

"I want my kids to enjoy the natural beauty of the world, so I want to do as much as possible to protect wildlife and our natural resources."

CHIAMAKA AZIH, '19

Growing up in Enugu, Nigeria, located in the country's southeastern region, Chiamaka Wendy Azih was accustomed to being surrounded by family and friends. Thus, when she arrived in the United States for the first time four years ago, she soon felt comfortable in her new home in South Carolina. Azih said that the friendly, family-like environment at Claflin University, led to her swift adjustment despite being thousands of miles from home.

Most surprising was the weather, she recalled when thinking about her initial impressions of Orangeburg. "When I left home, it was so hot," she said. "When I arrived here in July 2015, it was summer and in the 90s, but I felt really cold."

Azih came to Claflin based on recommendations from friends who either attended the university or heard about its programs. "I wanted to get a high-quality education and heard that Claflin had excellent academic programs and courses in leadership," she said. "I came here with all these expectations and Claflin delivered."

Growing up, Azih always enjoyed tinkering with all sorts of mechanical objects not often found in a young girl's hands. Doing so was a creative outlet for her, says Azih. "I enjoy taking things apart and putting them back together," she said.

Azih's curiosity led her to Claflin's computer engineering program where she quickly immersed herself in courses such as Data Structures and Algorithm, Computer Organization and Architecture, and Digital Logic and Design. While such courses proved rigorous, Azih met the challenge, and graduated with a 3.95 grade point average.

At Claflin, Azih was a student in the Alice Carson Tisdale Honors College and a four-year recipient of the Academic Excellence Award. She also served as vice president of the Claflin University Chapter of the Association of Computing Machinery-Women (ACM-W).

She attributes her success to Claflin's professors and the small, private university's ideal teacher-student ratios. "You get to talk to the professors one-on-one and that helps," she said.

Azih was able to share her own leadership and training skills while working in 2016 for the Summer Engineering Experience for Kids (SEEK) in New Orleans and Washington, D.C. The program included mentoring elementary and high school students as they developed engineering projects. She was thrilled to see the students' interest in science, technology and engineering grow as they created gliders, trebuchets, wind turbines and perfume. Prior to beginning the program, many of the youngsters were unfamiliar with the role of an engineer or how to create such machinery and fragrances, said Azih. "We wanted to see if we could make progress and help them feel like engineers."

Azih was further buoyed by summer internships that provided real-world experiences and, in her case, employment upon graduation. During the summers of 2017 and 2018, Azih worked in Charlotte, N.C. for Bank of America where she conducted research on how global position system (GPS) timing poses risks to financial institutions, and created a web user interface (Web UI) that detects access-related policy breaches by terminated or on-leave employees.

Although Azih was offered a position at Goldman Sachs, the global investment banking company, she decided to return to Bank of America in Charlotte due to its familiar environment and having friends in the city. Long-term goals include earning a master's degree in business administration (MBA) and a Ph.D. in mechanical engineering, she said.

Her ultimate plan is to one day return to her home in Nigeria to combine her academic and business training by starting her own business. Ironically, her path will closely follow that of her parents. Her father runs an auto parts business in Enugu, and her mother is a business administration professor at a university.

A key component of her business, will be working with young girls, who, like herself when growing up, enjoy taking things apart and putting them back together. "You need to see their smiles when they see that they can create something."

BOARD OF VISITORS RAISES $1 MILLION FOR FOCUS100 SCHOLARSHIPS

FOCUS 100 SCHOLARSHIPS

In 2004, the Claflin University Board of Visitors established FOCUS100 Scholarships to provide modest grants to assist students who have trouble managing the costs of their tuition, fees, or books. FOCUS100 Scholarships cover small financial shortfalls that too often lead students to withdraw from school. Since the program's creation, the University has used it to make awards ranging from $300 to $1,000 to more than 1,800 students.

In 2017, Dr. Henry N. Tisdale, the eighth president, Claflin University, issued a five-year challenge to the Board of Visitors - to raise $1 million for FOCUS100 scholarships. The members accepted the challenge and by 2018, had raised $350,000. However, after the announcement that he would retire on June 30, 2019, Tisdale urged the Board of Visitors to accelerate their efforts and finish the campaign at the end of his presidency.

"When Dr. Tisdale asked us to wrap up the campaign more than two years ahead of schedule, we immediately agreed," said Mrs. Thelma Hudson, who chairs the Board of Visitors. "We may not have known exactly how we were going to get it done, but we knew something more important. All of us knew that the leadership Dr. Tisdale has provided over the past 25 years has put the University in an excellent place. There's just no way any of us would have declined his request."

On July 17, 2019, the Claflin University Board of Visitors completed its challenge to raise $1 million for FOCUS100 Scholarships ($1,004,202.21). Since 2017, approximately 1,400 donors supported the Special Gifts Campaign for FOCUS100 Scholarships, with donors contributing, on average, $714 each.

"During the 2018-2019 academic year I was blessed to receive a FOCUS100 scholarship. I was struggling to figure out how I was going to pay the remaining balance on my account and started to become discouraged. I am beyond grateful to have received the scholarship," said Kyndal Broadway. She plans to graduate in May 2020 and will enroll in a teaching residency program through Urban Teachers, Mastery Charter Schools, or KIPP.

Give online at <https://alumni.claflin.edu/focus100-special-gifts-campaign-2018> to the FOCUS100 program or send a check made payable to Claflin University, and mail to Claflin University, Office of Institutional Advancement at 400 Magnolia Street, Orangeburg, SC 29115.

CLAFLIN BENEFITS FROM LOCAL SAFETY PROJECT

In December 2017, Claflin University hosted a groundbreaking ceremony for what is known as the Magnolia Street - Zan Street Intersection Improvement Project. The $5.7 million project will help to make the intersection located diagonally across from Claflin's front gate and one of its secondary parking lots a safer area. Funds for the project were allocated from federal earmarks, the Lower Savannah Council of Governments, and the Orangeburg County Transportation Committee.

According to the South Carolina Department of Transportation, from 2011-2014, there have been 35 vehicle-on-vehicle collisions have occurred at the intersection with 14 injuries. There have also been nine vehicle-train collisions in the past 10 years with one vehicle-train fatality and two injuries. The project will eliminate railroad crossings at Zan Street and Peasley Street with a new route from Boulevard Street to Magnolia Street. New traffic signals, turning lanes and sidewalks will also be installed in that area.

The safety project is in direct alignment with one of Claflin's guiding principle of valuing people by providing a safe, wholesome and healthy environment for students to live, learn and work. "This is a welcomed measure of safety for those who use the 601 corridor," said Dr. Henry N. Tisdale, president emeritis. "Claflin University is pleased to be a collaborator on this project. It's a win-win. Lives will be saved," he said.

WAYS TO GIVE

Claflin University has been the beneficiary of valued contributions from many donors. As we look to an even brighter future in this new capital campaign, we reach out to donors to join us, to imagine the possibilities with us. Here are the many ways to give to Claflin University.

CASH

A gift of cash (check or credit card) is the most popular way to give and entitles you to a federal income tax deduction of up to 50 percent of adjusted gross income.

MATCHING GIFTS

You may be able to double, or even triple, the amount of your gift through a matching gift from corporations and businesses. Ask your employer if your company is a matching gift company.

APPRECIATED ASSETS

Your gift of appreciated securities such as stocks, mutual funds and bonds has attractive benefits. An outright gift of long-term appreciated assets avoids capital gains taxes and, in most cases, you earn a charitable income tax deduction equal to the market value of the securities.

REAL PROPERTY

You can give real property, either as a bequest or by a lifetime transfer and realize significant tax benefits. Your gift is transferred by deed and may consist of all of your interest in the property or an undivided fractional interest.

A LIFE INCOME GIFT

A Life Income Gift enables you to make a substantial contribution without financial sacrifice and with income tax and financial benefits. You make an irrevocable transfer of assets as a gift to Claflin University while receiving income for life from the gift.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

Claflin University has been greatly enriched by gifts of personal property, such as rare books, manuscripts, paintings, artifacts and other valuables. Your personal property gift provides a double benefit: a charitable deduction plus avoidance of any potential capital gain tax.

For more information about these and other giving opportunities, please contact Rev. Whittaker V. Middleton, Vice President, Division of Institutional Advancement at Claflin University, 803.535.5312 or at wmiddleton@claflin.edu.
